
Contents

Introduction	ix
Chapter 1. E&I Education: An Overview	1
1.1. Defining entrepreneurship and innovation.	1
1.2. Innovation and entrepreneurship education	4
1.3. Can entrepreneurship be taught? Towards a framework of E&I education	8
1.3.1. The French case.	17
1.3.2. Enablers of entrepreneurship and innovation education	18
1.3.3. Perspectives for the European ecosystem.	22
1.4. Collaborative Interactivity learning principles	23
Chapter 2. From Idea to Vision	29
2.1. Self-knowledge: follow thy passion	32
2.2. Knowledge of the business field	33
2.3. Relationship networks	35
2.4. Other factors contributing to the development of the vision	37
2.5. Teaching the visionary theory.	38
2.5.1. Reflecting about the visionary model	38
2.5.2. Creating an authentic context.	39
2.5.3. Making it more interactive	39
2.5.4. Collaborating	40
Chapter 3. From Vision to Business Plan	41
3.1. Executive summary	42
3.2. Context: vision development	43
3.3. Literature review.	44

3.4. Market analysis	46
3.4.1. Opportunities and threats in the macro-environment: PESTEL-C.	47
3.4.2. Meso-environment: STP framework.	49
3.5. Marketing plan	52
3.6. Organizational strengths and weaknesses	55
3.7. Other sources of competitive strengths and weaknesses	57
3.8. Strategy and development plan: the TOWS matrix	58
3.9. Financial objectives	61
3.10. Conclusions and perspectives	61
3.11. Appendices and References	62
3.12. Teaching business planning	62
3.12.1. Reflecting about the frameworks in a business plan.	63
3.12.2. Creating and authentic business plan environment	63
3.12.3. Using technology to make it more interactive and collaborative	64
Chapter 4. From Business Plan to Business Model	67
4.1. Business models and business model artifacts	69
4.2. Claimed benefits and criticism of the BMC.	71
4.3. Value flow in the Business Model Canvas	74
4.3.1. Delivering and capturing value: the right side of the canvas	77
4.3.2. Creating value and controlling costs: the left side of the canvas	78
4.3.3. Color-coding multiple-sided business models	79
4.4. Sources of business model innovation	81
4.4.1. Tidd's innovation wheel.	81
4.4.2. Christensen's disruptive innovation	82
4.5. Visualizing business model innovation	85
4.6. Business modeling and the principle of effectuation.	88
4.7. Testing business model innovations	91
4.8. Teaching business model innovation	92
4.8.1. Reflecting about the Business Model Canvas	93
4.8.2. Creating and authentic business model environment	94
4.8.3. Using technology to make it more interactive and collaborative	95

Chapter 5. From Business Model Design to Design Thinking and Lean Startup	97
5.1. New product development: the traditional stage-gate approach	98
5.2. Customer development	101
5.3. Design thinking	106
5.4. Lean startup.	111
5.5. Teaching Design Thinking and Lean Startup	114
5.5.1. Creating an authentic sprint environment.	115
5.5.2. Reflecting about the simplified design sprint framework	116
5.5.3. Using technology to make it more interactive and collaborative	118
Chapter 6. Scaling Up: The Challenges of Knowledge Management	121
6.1. An overview of management systems	122
6.2. The 7S framework for organizational analysis	125
6.3. Towards a framework for innovative knowledge management	127
6.4. Applying Terra’s framework: best practices from leading companies	128
6.4.1. Senior management vision and strategy.	128
6.4.2. Culture, structure and human resource policies	129
6.4.3. Information systems and performance measurement systems.	130
6.4.4. Learning with the external environment	133
6.5. Knowledge management in the ecosystem: Quintuple Helix and stakeholder maps	134
6.6. Teaching and learning knowledge management	136
Chapter 7. Epilogue: Insights from Twenty Years of Teaching E&I	141
7.1. Learning by reflecting about authentic situations	142
7.2. Learning by collaboration	142
7.3. Learning by interacting through technology	143
7.4. Learning by exploring the ecosystem	144
7.5. From idea to market: innovative business development frameworks.	145

Appendices	149
Appendix 1. List of Tools and Frameworks Used in the Book	151
Appendix 2. Framework for Evaluating the Effectiveness of Entrepreneurship Teaching	155
Appendix 3. Sources of Secondary Data	159
Appendix 4. Franco-Russian Research Project on the Perceived Relevance of Design Thinking Education	161
References	167
Index	181