

---

Contents

---

Preface . . . . .	vii
Chapter 1. Innovation Systems: From Classic Models to Those Linked to Economic Development . . . . .	1
1.1. NISs: relevant approaches . . . . .	1
1.1.1. NISs and conceptual flexibility . . . . .	2
1.1.2. Common characteristics of NISs . . . . .	13
1.2. NISs of the Southern Countries: emerging economies and economic development. . . . .	20
1.2.1. NISs of the Southern Countries . . . . .	23
1.2.2. NISs and economic development . . . . .	30
1.2.3. Terminological variants of the IS . . . . .	37
1.3. Features of NIS in MINT . . . . .	44
1.3.1. Innovation, learning and classification. . . . .	44
1.3.2. NIS in MINT. . . . .	50
Chapter 2. Heterogeneity in Innovation Systems in Emerging Economies: Experiences in MINT . . . . .	57
2.1. Economic performance of MINT in globalization. . . . .	57
2.1.1. Overall representative data for MINT . . . . .	58
2.1.2. Heterogeneity of the economic trajectory of MINT . . . . .	59
2.2. The contribution of innovation to the structural competitiveness of the MINT . . . . .	81
2.2.1. Analysis of their respective NISs . . . . .	81
2.2.2. Is growth driven by innovation in MINT? . . . . .	104

2.3. Systemic failures and vulnerabilities in the MINT innovation systems . . . . .	107
2.3.1. The multiple systemic failures of the NISs of the MINT . . . . .	107
2.3.2. Moving toward compelling, if laborious, inclusive growth . . . . .	112
Conclusion . . . . .	119
Postface. Innovation Systems for Microfinance . . . . .	129
Bibliography . . . . .	137
Index . . . . .	153