
Contents

Foreword	ix
Robert G. PICARD
Introduction	xiii
Mercedes MEDINA
Chapter 1. New Paradigms of Audiovisual Industry	1
Mercedes MEDINA
1.1. Toward political freedom.	2
1.2. Media economics challenges	5
1.3. International trade of ideas.	11
1.4. Bibliography	16
Chapter 2. The Threat of OTT for the Pay-TV Market	19
Alicia URGELLES
2.1. The “new” barriers to entry and value chain	20
2.2. The pay-TV competitors in Spain.	24
2.3. The competitive and cooperative strategy of Netflix	28
2.4. Bibliography	36
Chapter 3. The Resistance of Legacy TV Channels	39
Mercedes MEDINA
3.1. The engine of audiovisual market.	40
3.2. Economic potential	46
3.3. Contribution to society	48
3.4. Bibliography	52

Chapter 4. The Public Service Heritage	53
Mercedes MEDINA
4.1. The crisis of the Spanish public television	55
4.2. The current challenges	59
4.3. Recommendations for the future	62
4.4. Bibliography	63
Chapter 5. The Battle for Audiences	65
Mónica HERRERO
5.1. The battle for time in the media market	65
5.2. New measurement systems.	68
5.3. Toward qualitative research	70
5.4. Bibliography	74
Chapter 6. Entertaining Power: Quality of Contents	77
Mercedes MEDINA
6.1. Defending media content quality	79
6.2. Perspectives of quality on TV	81
6.3. Searching for quality	89
6.4. Bibliography	93
Chapter 7. From Attention to Engagement in the Battle for the Audiences	97
Alicia URGELLÉS
7.1. Attention economy: the relationship with the creative mastermind	99
7.2. Engagement as the completion of the relationship	103
7.3. Trends and practical implications.	107
7.4. Bibliography	114
Chapter 8. Monetizing in the Digital Era.	119
Mónica HERRERO
8.1. Traditional funding systems of broadcasting	120
8.2. Broadcasters and online activities.	122
8.3. The new online business	126
8.4. Bibliography	130

Chapter 9. Implementing Innovation Strategy	135
Mercedes MEDINA
9.1. Innovation culture	137
9.2. Media transformation	141
9.3. Final thoughts	147
9.4. Bibliography	148
Index	153