

---

Contents

---

Introduction . . . . .	xi
Gwenaëlle GREFE and Dominique PEYRAT-GUILLARD
Part 1. Managing the Human Resources of Hotel Companies in the Face of Third Tourism Revolution Disruptions . . . . .	1
Introduction to Part 1 . . . . .	3
Chapter 1. Disruption and the Strategy of Hotel Groups . . . . .	9
Régis DUMOULIN and Aurore GIACOMEL
1.1. The hotel market: multinational companies and new players . . . . .	9
1.1.1. Airbnb . . . . .	11
1.1.2. Online travel agencies . . . . .	11
1.1.3. International issues . . . . .	12
1.2. Strategic responses from the world's leading hotels . . . . .	14
1.2.1. The positioning of groups in terms of hotel segments and ranges . . . . .	15
1.2.2. Diversification strategies . . . . .	16
1.2.3. Digitalization strategies . . . . .	17
1.2.4. Hypercompetition and hypervariety of service. . . . .	18
1.3. Conclusion . . . . .	19
1.4. References . . . . .	20
Chapter 2. Front-Office Jobs in the Age of Soft Skills . . . . .	23
Aurore GIACOMEL and Benoît RAVELEAU
2.1. Toward a strong presence of soft skills in front-office jobs. . . . .	23
2.2. Professionalization in front-office jobs, specificities that are tested in practice . . . . .	25

2.3. The skills and work experience of front-line employees . . . . .	30
2.4. Recruitment by soft skills and their difficult assessment . . . . .	32
2.5. Conclusion . . . . .	34
2.6. References . . . . .	35
Chapter 3. The Upgrading of Skills for the Back Office, Middle Line and Support Staff . . . . .	39
Gwenaëlle GREFE
3.1. The historical development of professions . . . . .	39
3.2. Skills development in a context of forced internationalization. . . . .	40
3.2.1. Internationalization, the target of high flyers. . . . .	40
3.2.2. Internationalization as a lever for reconfiguring and separating professions. . . . .	43
3.3. The rise in skills of the back office professions and support staff in the context of digitalization. . . . .	45
3.3.1. The establishment of expert teams . . . . .	46
3.3.2. New functional and operational professions . . . . .	47
3.4. The rise in back office skills and support staff professions in the face of the dual quest for enrichment and sustainability . . . . .	48
3.4.1. The diffusion of the economy of enrichment within the heritage hotel sector: the challenge of competencies . . . . .	49
3.4.2. From the globalized economy to the sustainable economy: the search for and activation of new skills? . . . . .	50
3.5. Conclusion . . . . .	51
3.6. References . . . . .	52
Chapter 4. Employee Turnover: HRM Challenges to Develop Commitment and Job Satisfaction . . . . .	55
Brigitte CHARLES-PAUVERS
4.1. Problematic loyalty... . . . .	55
4.2. ...challenged to develop necessary commitment and satisfaction at work . . . . .	57
4.3. Creating the conditions for commitment and satisfaction. . . . .	58
4.3.1. Recruitment . . . . .	60
4.3.2. Training and development. . . . .	61
4.3.3. Remuneration . . . . .	61
4.3.4. Support from managers . . . . .	62
4.4. Conclusion . . . . .	62
4.5. References . . . . .	63

---

Chapter 5. The Globalized Hotel Business: Worlds within a World . . . . .	67
Aurore GIACOMEL and Régis DUMOULIN
5.1. Worlds at stake and human resource management . . . . .	67
5.2. From the traditional concept of hospitality to the globalized hotel sector . . . . .	68
5.3. Diversity of hotel structures and HRM. . . . .	69
5.4. Diversity of professions and versatility of staff. . . . .	70
5.5. New segmentations and culture of change in HR . . . . .	71
5.6. Globalization: harmonizing HR cultures. . . . .	73
5.7. Conclusion . . . . .	75
5.8. References . . . . .	75
Chapter 6. The Hospitality World in Poland: A Dynamic Industry in Search of Soft Skills . . . . .	77
Aldona GLIŃSKA-NEWEŚ, Rafał HAFFER, Joanna WIŃSKA and Barbara JÓZEFOWICZ
6.1. Introduction: overview of the hotel industry in Poland . . . . .	77
6.2. Soft skills and a sense of meaningful work . . . . .	81
6.3. Soft skills in practice: a case study . . . . .	84
6.4. Conclusion: HR progress recommendations for the hotel industry in Poland. . . . .	89
6.5. References . . . . .	91
Chapter 7. International Hotel Groups and their Entrenchment in Mainland China . . . . .	95
Hong ZHU
7.1. The development of international hotels in China . . . . .	95
7.2. The challenge of intercultural management . . . . .	96
7.2.1. The case of the Ritz-Carlton in China . . . . .	100
7.3. Challenges in retaining employees . . . . .	101
7.4. Conclusion . . . . .	105
7.5. References . . . . .	105
Part 2. Managing the Human Resources of Air Transport Companies in the Face of Third Tourism Revolution Disruptions. . .	109
Introduction to Part 2. . . . . .	111

Chapter 8. Rebuilding of Flag Carrier Airline Companies and Historical Value Violations . . . . .	115
Gwenaëlle GREFE
8.1. National companies conquering the world: a historical background . . .	115
8.1.1. The impetus of the Paris Convention and the rise of the interwar period . . . . .	115
8.1.2. The acceleration given to air transport by the Chicago Convention . . . . .	117
8.2. Flag-carrying companies in the age of globalization: toward historical value chains. . . . .	119
8.2.1. American deregulation: an anticipation of globalization in Europe. . . . .	120
8.2.2. The liberalization of the European sky and its consequences on the majors, at all levels . . . . .	121
8.3. Conclusion . . . . .	127
8.4. References . . . . .	128
Chapter 9. Aircrew Conflict Management: Divisions and Continuity within the Ranks of the Majors . . . . .	131
Gwenaëlle GREFE and Dominique PEYRAT-GUILLARD
9.1. Two jobs for the same condition . . . . .	131
9.2. Flight crew, a class with comparable professional identities, difficult to integrate into traditional human resource management systems. . . . .	132
9.3. Flight crew, the target of successive restructuring plans leading to separate corporate struggles. . . . .	138
9.3.1. Cabin crew facing the challenge of trivializing their occupation . . .	138
9.3.2. Flight deck crew in need of joint management. . . . .	145
9.4. Conclusion . . . . .	150
9.5. References . . . . .	152
Chapter 10. Ground Personnel Exposed to Headwinds: Restructuring on Land in Response to Air Deregulation . . . . .	155
Gwenaëlle GREFE
10.1. The ground worlds . . . . .	155
10.2. Between ground and sky, the suspended world of air traffic controllers. . . . .	157
10.3. Ground operations personnel, an adjustment variable in any context . . . . .	162
10.3.1. Groundstaff: the immediate targets of legacies' restructuring plans. . . . .	162
10.3.2. ADP staff concerns . . . . .	164
10.3.3. Deregulation and outsourcing of ground handling activities . . . .	166

10.4. Conclusion . . . . .	170
10.5. References. . . . .	170
Chapter 11. The Psychological Bonds between Airline Pilots and their Work: From Passion to Reason . . . . .	173
Dominique PEYRAT-GUILLARD and Gwenaëlle GREFE
11.1. Airline pilot, from dream job to the psychological bonds experienced. . . . .	173
11.1.1. Flying, a child's dream. . . . .	173
11.1.2. An emotional bond of identification with the profession threatened by societal and organizational developments . . . . .	175
11.2. The particularity of the bond with the organization . . . . .	177
11.2.1. From an idealized organization.... . . . .	177
11.2.2... to an instrumental, or even a simple acquiescence bond . . . . .	178
11.3. Which HR policy? . . . . .	180
11.3.1. Recruitment difficulties in the face of an announced shortage. . . . .	180
11.3.2. Constrained career management . . . . .	181
11.3.3. A social dialogue hampered by the impossibility of defending one's profession . . . . .	182
11.4. Conclusion . . . . .	183
11.5. References. . . . .	183
Chapter 12. The World of Companies Pro Social No Frills . . . . .	187
Gwenaëlle GREFE
12.1. A world without social frills . . . . .	187
12.2. The chaotic regime of charter airline personnel in the face of the widespread use of "sun destination planes" . . . . .	188
12.3. Dark management at low-cost airlines: human resource management abuses . . . . .	192
12.3.1. Social dumping and circumvention of European labor law . . . . .	192
12.3.2. Human resource management optimization. . . . .	198
12.3.3. From social dialogue avoidance to accommodation. . . . .	201
12.4. Conclusion . . . . .	203
12.5. References. . . . .	204
Chapter 13. Hybrid Companies, Inclined to Reasoned Human Resource Management . . . . .	209
Gwenaëlle GREFE
13.1. A hybridization of models . . . . .	209
13.2. At the origin of the invention of low cost, a model based on employee commitment . . . . .	210
13.3. The low-cost imitation strategy . . . . .	212

13.3.1. The temptation of switching to low cost: the case of Aer Lingus . . . . .	213
13.3.2. The inclusion of low-cost as a response: the choice of duplication and subsidization of medium-haul flights . . . . .	216
13.4. Conclusion . . . . .	220
13.5. Appendix: the Middle East airline world. . . . .	221
13.6. References. . . . .	223
Conclusion . . . . .	225
Gwenaëlle GREFE and Dominique PEYRAT-GUILLARD
List and Biographies of Authors . . . . .	227
Index . . . . .	231