
Contents

Introduction	ix
Chapter 1. Tourism and Health, a Long-standing and Renewed Relationship	1
1.1. From Hippocrates to thermalism	3
1.1.1. The Roman period	3
1.1.2. Elsewhere in the world	5
1.1.3. To the Middle Ages, then in the Renaissance	7
1.1.4. Modern history of spa towns	9
1.2. From sea bathing to coastal tourism and thalassotherapy	14
1.2.1. Thermal medicine	16
1.2.2. Thalassotherapy	19
1.3. Fresh air, nature, health and tourism	21
1.4. From heliotropism to a reflection on social inequalities in tourism	24
Chapter 2. Travel Health, Risks and Diseases	27
2.1. Diseases and risk areas	28
2.1.1. Infectious and parasitic diseases	29
2.1.2. Prevention is better than cure	54
2.2. Circulation of tourists, circulation of diseases	56
2.2.1. International travel and the spread of epidemics	57
2.2.2. Non-infectious risks and diseases: travel-related variations	60
2.2.3. Travel mortality and its causes	70
2.2.4. Health upon return home (example of post-travel depression)	70
2.3. Bodies, tourism activities and health	71
2.3.1. The relationship with the sun and how new body norms emerge	71
2.3.2. Worship of bodily beauty	77
2.4. Accidents, insurance and repatriation and access to travel healthcare	91

2.4.1. Comparing healthcare systems around the world	91
2.4.2. Health insurance, assistance and repatriation.	98
Chapter 3. Medical Tourism, Health Mobilities and Global Processes	103
3.1. Medical tourism, definition(s) and trends	103
3.1.1. Definition(s).	104
3.1.2. Trends and issues	108
3.2. The patient tourist experience	117
3.3. Tourism and disability.	119
3.3.1. Adapted travels	119
3.3.2. Respite tourism for caregivers	125
3.4. Retirement tourism: from tourism to winterization.	127
3.5. The backpacker phenomenon and health	130
3.5.1. Risk assessment and risk taking	131
3.5.2. Seeking care and searching for alternative practices.	133
3.6. Circulations, vernacular knowledge and health versus tourism and globalization	134
3.6.1. Substance circulations and pharmaceutical tourism	135
3.6.2. From traditional health knowledge tourism to shamanic tourism.	141
Chapter 4. Impact of Tourism Development on the Health of Destinations	147
4.1. Impacts on health systems	147
4.1.1. Does tourism unbalance local health systems?	148
4.1.2. Does tourism initiate public health policies?	153
4.1.3. Labels and certification standards	158
4.1.4. Special case: the impact of medical tourism	161
4.2. Health and environmental impacts	164
4.2.1. Pollution or degradation of ecosystems	165
4.2.2. Example: the impact of cruise tourism	170
4.2.3. Social environment	171
4.3. Social health impacts	173
4.3.1. Occupational health.	173
4.3.2. Changing lifestyles: thoughts on food.	177
4.3.3. Tourist carrying capacity and health issues.	179

Chapter 5. Health, Ignored in Tourism Development? A Neglected Asset?	183
5.1. Health and wellness as a tourist segment	183
5.1.1. Health benefits of travel and tourism	185
5.1.2. Health, well-being and tourist attractiveness	186
5.2. Synthesis of potentials.	189
5.2.1. Flagship products	189
5.2.2. An evolving clientele	190
5.2.3. Four facets of the same object	191
5.3. What role for each category of actor?	193
5.3.1. Territorial actors: assessing the health impacts of tourism development	194
5.3.2. Health actors: taking into account the fact of tourism	195
5.3.3. Tourism stakeholders: linking tourism and health	196
5.4. Transforming tourism: Goal 3 of the Berlin Declaration	198
Conclusion	201
References	205
Index	221